Melodrama was definitely Melodramatic!!!

The Gigglesworth Fortune

Congratulations to those who took part in the Melodrama at The Dickens Festival, and a big thank you to those who came to support us. I think that it is fair to say that everyone involved enjoyed themselves. I really enjoyed writing the script and it was so exciting to watch it come together. The cast was amazing as always, even when obstacles were ungraciously thrown in their path.

A week before the performance Chloe stepped in to play the Comic Drunk for the Friday performances. Like a real star she was able to step into the role with learnt lines and a hilarious performance after just one rehearsal. Thank you Chloe xx

Unfortunately, John was sadly unable to perform due to an extremely bad back and a huge thank you goes to George for playing the role of the Villain all weekend.

On the Sunday we were preparing to perform when we received a frantic phone call from Alex (who was meant to be playing the Drunk). He was stuck on a train that was going nowhere. With quick improvisation from the cast we threw poor Gwinny into bits of costume and ran through the play at supersonic speed. Thankfully, Gwinny knew all the words and played the part effortlessly. Literally seconds before the 'curtains opened' Tommy walked through the door (having been got out of bed) ready to play the part. Gwinny could finally breath again.

When preparing for the final performance for the weekend the fire alarm decided to go off and we had to leave the building. After standing outside for ten minutes, with Gwinny getting excited about the Firemen that had appeared, we were told that we were not allowed back in the venue. With true Three Towns spirit we pulled together our resources and performed outside. We had a brilliant audience that stayed to support us and the performance was amazing.

Another Three Towns success. Well done everyone and a big Thank You to Gwinny for taking on the role of Director and putting us through our paces. Watch this space for a possible sequel.....
